Dear

We hereby invite you to attend the 44th Annual Meeting of the International Neuropsychological Society (INS) to be held this February 3-6, 2016 at the Marriott Copley Place in Boston, Massachusetts, USA.

On behalf of the Society, I am pleased to invite you to attend this conference and welcome your participation. We would be very pleased to have you join us.

As you may know, the International Neuropsychological Society is a multi-disciplinary, non-profit organization dedicated to enhancing communication among the scientific disciplines which contribute to the understanding of brain-behavior relationships. The Society currently has more than 4700 members throughout the world. The Society holds two meetings per year, including its Annual Meeting in North America every February and its Mid-Year Meeting outside of North America every July. Each meeting offers four days of scientific programming and continuing education workshops. Both meetings are open to members and non-members, and to professionals and students. Attendees represent neuropsychology and a variety of other disciplines.

Please refer to our website at www.the-ins.org for the 44th Annual Meeting program and registration information, including fees. Please note this invitation does not include any financial or monetary support for travel, registration fees, or other expenses that you may incur as an attendee of the INS Meeting. Attendees are responsible for all costs incurred as part of the meeting, including registration and continuing education course costs, hotel accommodations, and transportation.

We thank you for your interest in INS. Please do not hesitate to contact our office if we can be of further assistance.

Sincerely,

Gordon J. Chelune, Ph.D.
Executive Director, International Neuropsychological Society
